Pasig River and Luneta. The Pasig River is a stream fifteen miles long, which connects the Bay of Manila and Laguna Bay. It is navigable only for small steamers and native boats. Along the bay shore is the Luneta—the great playground of Manila—a combination drive and promenade. Here in the late afternoon throngs of people gather to listen to the music of the regimental band which plays for an hour before sunset. The Luneta is well illuminated and continues to be the magnet for pleasure-seekers even after nightfall.
